Aud: "No, you cannot give both sides of the story.

I think it's something that has to do with the First Commandment: 'Thou shalt not have strange gods before you. I mean, unknown forces ... strange fascinating things. Yeah, you know, antithetical to Judeo-Christian beliefs, huh?"

AB: "Well, that's right – you can never tell what will walk in. If you open a door, then something with green fangs and big teeth ..."

Aud: "Well ... not necessarily that."

Aud: "Did you notice there were no women calling in on your interview with the time machine mechanic? Except for women who thought he was a radical extremist or a madman? Does that tell you anything?"

AB: "Well, it was kind of a technical thing, and you know, guys like that kind of thing and women – some of them are horrified by it. So I think that's your answer – I don't know what it says though."

Aud: "You're gonna hear this first from me, but this has to do with cloning."

AB: "Okay."

Aud: "If man can clone animals ..."

AB: "Um-hmm."

Aud: "... why can't God clone Himself (?), thus confirming the Virgin Birth and the Godhead."

AB: "How do you know He didn't? It's as good a theory as any."

Aud: "Right. I think he possibly did."

Aud: “Pardon ... right!”

Aud: “Yeah.”

AB: “... you know, it’s a good theory.”

Aud: “I think, you know, ah, I ... I was just thinkin’ of this. It’s possible. Some people, ah, don’t believe in the Virgin Birth and whatever and says it’s not possible. This does prove that it could be possible.”

AB: “You know, that ... that is correct.

Ah, thank you very much for the call.

Ah, it certainly would explain a Virgin or an apparent Virgin Birth, wouldn’t it?”

It doesn't mean nothing!

What we're talking about here, folks is artificial intelligence – not on the horizon but here now! And I wonder where you think this is going to lead? An artificial brain – one that you set upon a path of developing new neural pathways and virtually improving itself (growing!) Wanna think of it that way, think of it as something that is growing. And it's their words here that it awakened … AWAKENED (!) … Oh what road are we beginning to go down … And what's at the end of it – don't you wonder?"

AB: "Uh-oh! … What were the four (4) that came true?"

Aud: "They were personally for me, and I believe that that was teaching me the voice of God (!) Now I don't want to get into any religion, I just want to tell you what my premonition was, okay?"

AB: "All right."

Aud: "I tried to fax you for a week, but …"

AB: "Okay, it is premonition number five (5) that really counts – what is it?"

Aud: "What was told to me was there is going to be a UFO land on the planet somewhere, sometime, and …"

AB: "I've been hearing about this now for years – Black Helicopters! ... Has one yet injured anybody? Has one yet killed anybody? Has one yet strafed or in any way any of the civilian population? Have they?"

Aud: [Does not directly answer the question.]

AB: "You know this whole black helicopter thing is really out of control. If you want to fly a helicopter at night and be stealthy – the obvious color to paint it is black. So that if there's not a great, big moon out, it blends in with the general blackness of the sky. So I have yet to have anybody really call me and tell me that any black helicopter has done anything nasty."

OPEN LINES

AB: "From the high desert and the Great American Southwest, I bid you all Good Evening, Good Afternoon, Good Morning, whatever time of day it might be in all twenty-four (24) time zones covered by this radio program ever growing …"

Aud: Heard a caller calling in with the problem of hearing voices when falling asleep. "The caller mentioned that he could hear several hundred voices, and then … just one voice calling his name which would cause him to wake up (!) … Since I've had the same experiences, I thought I should look it up on the world-wide web [internet] and it seems that there are many, many others inflicted with this "problem." Most of the psychological reference guides call it 'hypnagogic hallucination.' Other sites associate these types of hallucinations with narcolepsy – however, I've only had one (1) or two (2), and sleep just fine the rest of the time."

"I can only think that it's some type of event triggered by some type of life issue, or it may be – may well be, the 'other side' trying to connect with us through this 'drowsy dimension.' …"

AB: "We should have some type of sleep expert on the program to talk about this magical period of time. You know, when you are awake and you're thinking whatever thoughts you are and that instant when you pass into sleep … lapse out of a conscious state, but in that little 'twilight zone' of a time – Oh, My, My! All sorts of magical interesting things occur! We can move out of our bodies; we can see things we would not normally see; we could hear things we would not normally hear; and of course, the psychologists have 'Explanation A' for that – you know, nice and neat, and they've got a name for it, but I'm not so sure at all. And I'm not so sure that they're sure either."

"They just have to write papers, and publish or perish, and so they say what they say about it, but to me, it does seem possible that this little magical period of time is a time when communication with the other side or another side (we don't really know what we're talking about here, right?) is possible – even probable. … Fascinating."

AB: "This was sent to me – written actually – by Bruce Cameron, and it's called 'The Eight (8) Simple Rules For Dating My Daughter':

Now you think you've heard them, but these are new rules. … As a Dad, I have some basic rules which I've carved into stone tablets that I have actually displayed in my living room:

Rule 1: If you pull into my driveway and honk, you'd better be delivering a package, because you're sure as heck not picking anything up.

Rule 2: You do not touch my daughter in front of me. You may glance at her, so long as you do not peer at anything below her neck. If you cannot keep your eyes or hands off my daughter's body, I will remove them.

Rule 3: I am aware that it is considered fashionable for boys of your age to wear their trousers so loosely that they appear to be falling off their hips. Please don't take this as an insult, but you and all of your friends are complete idiots! Still, I want to be fair and open-minded about the issue so I propose this compromise: You may come to the door with your underwear showing and your pants ten sizes too big and I will not object. However, in order to assure that your clothes do not in fact come off during the course of your date with my daughter, I will take my electric staple gun and fasten your trousers securely in place around your waist.

Rule 4: I'm sure you've been told that in today's world that sex without utilizing a barrier method of some kind can kill you. Let me elaborate – when it comes to sex – I am the barrier and I will kill you.

© 1994, 1995, 1997, 1999, 2001, 2002, 2004 Premiere Networks Inc.
The Art Bell Vault offers vintage, commercial-free Art Bell shows at coasttocoastam.com/sign-up

Rule 5: In order for us to get to know each other, we should talk about sports, politics, and other issues of the day. Please do not do this! The only information I require from you is an indication of when you expect to have my daughter safely back at my house. The only word I need from you on this subject is 'Early.'

Rule 6: I have no doubt that you are a popular fellow with many opportunities to date other girls. This is fine with me as long as it is okay with my daughter. Otherwise, once you have gone out with my little girl, you will continue to date no one but her until she is finished with you. If you make her cry, I will make you cry!

Rule 7: As you stand in my front hallway waiting for my daughter to appear and more than an hour goes by, do not sigh and fidget. If you want to be on time for the movie, you shouldn't be dating! My daughter is putting on her make-up – a process that can take longer than painting the Golden Gate Bridge. … Instead of just standing there, why don't you do something useful like changing the oil in my car?

And then finally,

Rule 8: The following places are not appropriate for a date with my daughter: Places where there are beds, sofas, or anything softer than a wooden stool; places lacking parents, policemen, or nuns; places where there is darkness; places where there is dancing, holding hands, or happiness; places where the ambient temperature is warm enough to induce my daughter to wear shorts, tank tops, midriff T-shirts, or anything other than overalls, a sweater, and a goose-down parka zipped to the chin.

Movies with a strong romantic or sexual theme are to be avoided; movies which feature chainsaws however are OK (!); Hockey games are OK!

My daughter claims it embarrasses her to come downstairs and find me attempting to get her date to recite these eight (8) simple rules from memory. I'd be embarrassed too – there are only eight (8) of them for crying out loud! And for the record I did not suggest to even one of the cretins that I would have these rules tattooed on their arm, if he couldn't remember them. I checked into it and the cost is prohibitive. I merely told him that I thought writing these rules on his arm with a ballpoint pen might be … after all, ink washes off. My wood burning set would be a better alternative.

One time my wife caught me having one of my daughter's would-be suitors practicing pulling into the driveway, getting out of the car, and going up to knock on the front door – he had violated Rule No. 1, so I

I mean ..."

AB: (laughs heartily). "Oh now ..."

Aud: "Me and my son are sittin' there lookin' at each other, and I said: 'That's me.'"

OPEN LINES

AB: "I think I have found something on Mars before Richard [C. Hoagland (RCH)]. (AB laughs). Could that possibly be true? Well, all right, probably not. Probably he knows and I'm just on the air first. [At the time, RCH's radio show immediately followed AB's radio show]. If not, I want you to know – I want you to go to artbell.com – because on Mars right now somebody actually has found what looks like Stonehenge – Stonehenge on Mars!

I wouldn't kid you, and I wouldn't put it up if it didn't look spectacular! … Look at these rocks! This is virtually Stonehenge on Mars! So if you want to see it, it's at artbell.com. I'm sure Richard will be all over this tonight. Awesome! Absolutely awesome! And I don't really see how it could be …? You take a look at the photograph and you let me know what you think."
